

EXTRAORDINARY PREDICTIONS !!

A Full and Particular Account of the most astonishing PROPHECIES and PREDICTIONS, concerning the Revolutions, War, Reform, &c that is said will happen in the various Nations of Europe, &c, in the different Months of this eventful year, 1831. By a celebrated Jewish Prophet, from Poland.

JANUARY....When I consider the aspects that usher in the new-born year, I must say, the times appears fraught with ominous denouncements! Important changes are foretold to mighty states—remarkable events occur to Russia, Denmark, Sweden, and an Oriental Kingdom. London is the scene of extraordinary political and mercurial schemes.

FEBRUARY.....This is an unfortunate month. Illness or a singular trouble, is approaching to an illustrious person, perhaps mighty personage. His horoscope has certainly a malicious aspect therein, and which will scarcely pass without a noted effect either in this or the ensuing month. One in military life, or an eminent man dies or is disgraced; a clergyman suffers; there is a great calamity to some part of the religious world; a conspiracy; many knavish schemes, thefts, robberies, &c.; and something extraordinary excites the popular attentions.

MARCH...The nativity of a great personage is still afflicted. We may expect a military death or funeral; the decease of a very clever character; a great fire; a notorious robbery, (perhaps murder); many heavy failures in trade; a shipwreck; many shameful contentions; a remarkable or pompous nuptial; and such evil news both at home and from abroad, where I think a great battle is likely to be fought. Moreover, it will be a month of mortality; a great gambler dies, or is ruined, and many pompous preparations are in progress. A shameful project or nefarious scheme is discovered or exploded; a noted person ridiculed; and the month is evil for the rising generation, while in literature and science there will be singular failures.

APRIL....This is a month of misfortunes to London, and, perhaps, also to England; but something of high consequence, and I think also fortunate to the community, will happen very shortly. A dignified personage is, however, still doomed to illness or trouble; and there will be conflagrations, as also extraordinary news, great part of a mischievous nature.

MAY....I fear this will be a month of disasters. Evil reports, lies, and rumours....several fires and sudden deaths, or violent catastrophes. One of an illustrious family is troubled or afflicted; something remarkable may happen to a Princess, or a noble Lady; a great man dies, and there is evil news from foreign parts. It is also a month of singular mortality, especially to persons signified by Sol, viz. those in authority, dignified and wealthy.

JUNE....The Continental States, perhaps Holland or the Netherlands are indicated by no favourable omens. A great poet or painter dies. In an illustrious family there are still directions of trouble, or something still worse. The signifier of America. In the monthly horoscope, forebodes a preparation for war, or that country changes in its policy, if not legislators. Death also claims his share in the councils of a certain nation, and it will be a wonder if he do not come off victorious. Scientific men or statesmen, however, are promoted. The funeral of an eminent clergyman is at hand.

JULY.....We may expect a great statesman or scientific character to meet death or disgrace. The military in general are under evil aspects; failures in the commercial world; fires and crimes of no usual order, and more especially abroad. It is an evil month for poets, painters, musicians, &c. A noted gambler or speculator suffers; and America, France, and several foreign parts, are amenable to mischievous influences, maladies, &c.

AUGUST...The admonitions of the starry heavens, however, they may be lightly esteemed or disregarded by mankind, are, during this thrice eventful epoch, loud in their ominous and fearful forewarnings. Let us fervently hope the warning thus given may not be in vain! Here are signs of mortality to the noble—illness to a great or princely personage—death of a clergyman or learned person—detection of an impostor, and many other primary catastrophes, many of which, scorning the limits of time, will be continued beyond the month.

SEPTEMBER....This is assuredly a busy eventful month, not in popular annals. A philanthropic scheme is began or premeditated. The clergy seems fortunate; and abroad some extraordinary matters are consummating. A great man becomes popular during this configuration. I would that the good were lasting! but alas, I cannot so promise it.

OCTOBER....This will indeed be a noted month, for wedlock and nuptial ceremonies. One or more of these too, bedecked with pageantry of state, or splendour of wealth; many widows, and middle aged of the fair sex, will have good cause to think of October 1831. The other events of the month are no less extraordinary.

NOVEMBER....The Sun quartiles Herschel. Woe to the great one. The Sun squares Jupiter! Woe to one of the church. These are the oracles of the monthly horoscope. Death is preparing his phantom dart—soon will he strike. Ye who oppress the poor and needy—who are even as the outcasts of the earth in the eyes of Heaven—take warning. Lo! the time is at hand.

DECEMBER....December concludes the forewarnings of the year, and in this gloomy month we find Mercury gives us a passing touch of calamities, fires, &c. Well had it have been had the year ended with happier influences; and well will it still be, if mankind take timely warning from the past....(R. M. Printer.)
