Annual statistics, 1959-2007, of the Mountain Rescue Committee of Scotland, with Area Reports, Incident Reports, call out lists and related correspondence submitted by civilian mountain rescue teams, police, coastguards, RAF and others.

The Mountain Rescue Committee was formed in 1936 by members of mountaineering clubs in England and Scotland with the co-operation of other bodies such as the Police. The Committee established the first chain of volunteer mountain rescue teams in Britain. The Mountain Rescue Committee of Scotland was formed in 1964 and is the representative and liaison body for Scottish Mountain search and rescue activities. Whilst the primary role of the affiliated volunteer rescue organisations is search and rescue in mountainous terrain, their role extends to providing help to any person/s in need of assistance in all forms of inhospitable terrain or circumstances or civil emergency, either as an independent unit, or in conjunction with the other emergency services.

The MRCS Accident Report Officer or Statistician collates and analyses information on mountain and non-mountaineering incidents in Scotland that require assistance from the emergency services. The Statistician's annual report of 'Scottish Mountain Accidents' listing each and every incident reported to him provides a comprehensive source of information on Scottish mountain and other rescues, covering a range of aspects from injuries, weather conditions, location, contributory causes, types of injury and emergency services involved. Up to 2001 the reports were published annually in the Journal of the Scottish Mountaineering Club.

The original chronological arrangement of the papers, grouped by year, and within that by Accident Survey, Area Accident Lists and Incident Reports by Region or reporting organisation (e.g. police force, coastguard etc.), has been retained. The geographical divisions are those used in the Scottish Mountaineering Club's District Guidebooks. Correspondence received with the Area Accident Lists and Incident Report has been left in place. From most years between 1979 and 1999 Incident Reports submitted by the Lochaber Mountain Rescue Team were filed together rather than with others submitted for the Region. They have been left in their original folders and placed with the other reports for the year. SARDA [Search and Rescue Dog Association Scotland Call Out Reports] have been filed separately.

Many of the early reports take the form of letters or notes sent to Ben Humble, the mountaineer and author, and first MRCS statistician. Later reports are usually entered on printed forms referred to variously as 'Accident Reports', 'Search/Accident/Fatality Reports' or 'Incident Reports'. Incidents reported between 1983 and 2001 are recorded on floppy discs. From 2002 reports a growing number of reports have been submitted electronically. They feature in the Annual 'Summary Reports' of Incidents compiled by the MRCS Statistician, but are not included in the files of Incident Reports submitted to him.

These records include sensitive personal information as defined by the Data Protection Act, 1998. They are not to be issued without the written permission of the Mountain Rescue Committee of Scotland.
