

Help us to collect history

Appeal

The National Library of Scotland is ‘Collecting the Referendum’ and needs your help to collect local items related to September’s referendum.

This could be leaflets, posters, newsletters or flyers, and nothing is too small to be of interest. They can be in print or digital format, and information about local campaign groups (including blogs, websites, or Facebook pages) will be especially useful.

We can collect and archive only what we find out about, so your information now can make a real difference to how good our collection will be. After the Referendum much of this unique material could be thrown out or deleted, making it too late to save.

Your help will be greatly appreciated.
